sons to be on the lookout for these sharps. Two of them wound up in Central station yesterday, and another one is known to be at large in the city.

About 1 o'lock yesterday afternoon the attention of Detectives Coulson and Robinson was attracted to two women who were trying to dispose of some silk in front of a Smithfield street restaurant. The women stated that the silk had been smuggled into this country, and on account of not paying any duty on it, were enabled to sell it cheap. Thinking the stuff had been stolen the detectives arrested the two women, who gave their names as Mary and Bridget Gorman. The tormer is mother of the latter, and stated at the station house that the sitk had been purchased in a Diamond street store. The detectives went to the place and found that the story was correct. The women had purchased the stuff and made similar purchases many times before.

FULL SCOPE OF THE SCHEME.

Their scheme was to buy cheap silk and give out the impression that it was of costly manufacture, and on account of being brought into this country without any tax upon it, they could sell it cheaply. The women reside at No. 339 Beaver avenue, Alleghenv and, it is said, have been doing a profitable business selling "smuggled" goods. As they had not stolen or smuggled the silk and no charge could be preferred against them, the women were released with a reprimand by In-There is another "smuggler" in the city who

There is another smugger in the city who is selling cloth, but in this case it is a man. He carries with him several rolls of cloth and gives out the impression they are smuggled. He is well known in the railroad offices in Allegheny where he has done business, and the young men who bought his cloth have been awaiting an opportunity to interview him since his last men who bought his cloth have been awaiting an opportunity to interview him since his last visit last fall. About a year ago he appeared with his cloth and sold enough to make three suits to three men for $10 per suit. He said the stuff had been smuggled from Canada into this country, and owing to its low cost when bought from the manufacturer, he could sell it for less than one-half what the same goods would cost if bought from a regular dealer in this city. Thinking they were getting the cloth cheap, and in the belief that it is not a sin to rob the Government, the victims pobbled the bait and purchased the cloth. robbled the bait and purchased the cloth, shey were told they could have the stuff made ip into clothes for $10, but when they went to oo business with a tailor they found it would ost considerable more.

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST.

With the additional cost for trimmines, etc. the men thought they were ahead of the game, and put up the extra charges without a murmur. After their clothes had been made they looked well enough, but in less than a month it was a race to see which would give out the somest. In two months it was found that the cloth instead of being a superior quality was of an inferior grade, and the clothes looked as shabby as if they had been worn for several Years.

The man who was around trying to sell cloth in the Court House yesterday answered the the Alicagemans about a year ago. He did not say his goods had been smuggled, but his actions led people to believe that no daty had been paid on it. As far as could be learned he did not secure any customers, although his prices were very low. He is still in the city, but the poice department, cannot arrest hur prices were very low. In the Supreme Court yesterday an argument Company against the borough of Saltsburg, ap pealed by the defendant from the Common pealed by the defendant from the Common Pleas of Irdiana county. The case was a suit in equity, brought by the gas company, to restrain the defendants from using the plaintiff's gas in open street lamps in the streets of the borough. In reture for rights through the borough the company agreed to furnish gas for the street lamps. A contract was afterward made for furnishing gas for a number of additional open lights. The company afterward gave notice that they would shut off the gas from the open lights, but when they sent men to do so the men were arrested. They then brought suit, and the lower court decided in the company's favor.
